

Chicagoist

http://chicagoist.com/2008/05/19/quicker_sticker.php

May 19, 2008

Quicker Sticker Purchase

Mark your calendars, car folk: city stickers expire June 30. We know it sounds like a long time from now, but that's how procrastination gets ya. Plus it takes 10-14 days, so it's really not all that much time. Luckily, city clerk Miguel Del Valle has unveiled a new, fancier site where you can renew both your city sticker and your residential parking permit.

City stickers cost $75 for regular cars, $120 for SUVs, and $30 for cars driven by senior citizens.

See also: old stickers. [Photo by quinnanya, S-T]